Here is the latest draft of the responses for our discussion at 1:00. It does not include the revised lagoon section (Eric is working on that).

We are working on modifying the QA/QC section with Gina and Donald.

Subject: Have any of you tracked down this article yet?

We received a comment that referred to this article:

Other commenters indicated that EPA had failed to do an adequate job of reviewing published peer reviewed studies on the impacts of manure application to fields which show minimal impacts to the environment. (Jour Enviro Quality vol 34, sept oct 2005 ferguson et al.).

When I found it online, it's on a website that requires a subscription. We may have an Agency subscription and I thought of asking Liz Doyle, our librarian, if she could get it for us, but I thought I'd check to see if someone is already working on that first. (there may be others – but that's all I've seen so far). Please let me know. Thank you.
